Over 22,000 Chinese have landed in San Francisco this year. By the reduction of the vaccination fee to 25 cents, the Chinese Six Companies have been saved about $16,000.

The barn of E. G. Darling, near Oakland, Douglas county, Oregon, was struck by lightning a few days ago and burned, together with its contents, including six valuable horses. Loss, $5,000.

Last Monday George Schroth & Co., proprietors of the Phoenix mills, Sacramento, shipped by steamer 200 tons, or 4,000 sacks, of fine flour, to be loaded on a ship and taken to Liverpool.

During the extreme hot days preceding the Fourth, the workmen in the Manzanita hydraulic mine at Nevada City, were so overcome by the heat that they could not work outside of the line of the spray of the monitors.

Filmora, a thoroughly priest-ridden town in Southern Utah, is drying up like St. George and will soon blow away. Mountain Meadows was the first to receive the curse of God, and the place which once "blossomed as the rose" is now a scorching desert.

The Mormon committee that went to Washington to get Utah admitted as a State, are not making any headway, and they purpose to return to Salt Lake in time to celebrate the 24th of July, that great day with the brethren, when their orators tell how "we made the desert blossom as the rose."

Frank P. Deering, Librarian and Secretary of the San Francisco Law Library, has filed with the Supervisors his report for the year ending June 30th, showing 20,353 volumes in the library; during the year 1,303 volumes were added, of which 875 were purchased, 75 donated, and 253 are pamphlets, periodicals and legal records bound.

A beautiful girl looked out of her window one day, and saw her rude brother out on the sidewalk, walking about on his hands with his feet dangling up in the air. "Tom," she said, reprovingly, "don't Tom; I wouldn't do that, Tom—indeed I wouldn't." "Wouldn't?" replied the rude boy, looking up, and speaking with marked and malicious emphasis, "Wouldn't? By Jocks, you couldn't!"—Hawkeye.

Commander J. B. Coghlan, U. S. N., stationed at Mare Island, Cal., writes that he was subject to the most painful attacks of rheumatism, which totally unfitted him for the responsible duties of his office. Eminent naval and other surgeons failed to afford the slightest relief, until Dr. Hoyle recommended St. Jacobs Oil, which effected a complete and wonderful cure.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

The bombardment of the forts at Alexandria by the British government yesterday has closed the Suez Canal, one of the grandest scientific projects of the age. A brief resume of the causes which led to the undertaking and the extraordinary facilities accorded to commerce through its completion will not be out of place at this time. The Suez Canal is an artificial arm of the sea, connecting the Mediterranean and Red Seas. The idea of its formation was of very ancient origin, and, indeed, there was communication by water from sea to sea as early as 600 years before the Christian era, but after continuing for about 1,400 years the channel was neglected and fell into disuse. It is also asserted, with some show of reason, that the grand idea was a pet hope of Napoleon, who prosecuted some investigations in that direction, but without ultimate success. The design was rendered more valuable by the introduction of screw steamers, which, independent of the vagaries of the winds and tides, were permitted to pursue tortuous courses through narrow channels where sailing vessels could scarcely venture. The canal reduced the distance between Western Europe and India from 11,378 to 7,638 miles, a saving of more than a month on a voyage, and this great result was due to the energy and enterprise of the indefatigable Ferdinand de Lesseps. From 1849 to 1854 he was occupied in maturing his plans, and after several conferences of Commissioners in Egypt and Paris De Lesseps secured the necessary funds for the enterprise, and in 1860 the work was commenced.

The canal extends from Port Said, on the Mediterranean, to Suez, on the Red Sea, the length of navigation being 88 geographical miles. Of that distance 66 miles are actual canal, formed by cutting, 14 miles are made by dredging through lakes, and 8 miles required no work, the natural depth being sufficient. There were nearly 80,000,000 cubic yards of material excavated, and at one time there were thirty dredging machines and 30,000 laborers employed in the work. The cost of the undertaking was over $100,000,000. The business of the canal has steadily increased since its completion, the receipts having assumed enormous proportions. The net profits last year were over $3,000,000, an increase of over 28 per cent, over the profits of the preceding year. Each ship that passes through the canal pays a little over 20 cents per ton.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Thurston Weed, in a letter to the Tribune, predicts the failure of the recent radical measures taken in Kansas and Iowa to stop intemperance. He thinks the refusal to license and other prohibitory measures have aggravated rather than mitigated intemperance. He thinks when we become a grape-growing country like France, a practical remedy for intemperance will soon be reached. "When the grape," he says, "is produced in sufficient quantity to furnish cheap wine as a beverage for all classes, it will be within the scope and duty of Congress to perfect a reform that will emancipate the people from the horrors of intemperance." This reform is to be accomplished by furnishing wine, abundant and cheap; while by legislation, whisky, brandy, rum, etc., is made so dear as to be out of the reach of the laboring classes. He thinks California, Kansas and other States, with soils adapted to grape culture, had better turn their attention to wine making.

President Barrios of Guatemala was formally received by the Mayor and citizens of New Orleans yesterday. The Democratic Territorial Convention met at Phoenix, A. T., yesterday, and nominated Granville H. Oury Delegate to Congress by acclamation.

TO-DAY'S NEWS

Press Dispatches to Evening Gazette.

EASTERN.

Advancing the Construction of a Ship Canal.

NEW YORK, July 12.

The World's editorial says: It is announced that the House Committee on Foreign Affairs will this week consider the question of constructing a ship canal through the lake of Nicaragua. It is to be hoped that with the echo of the guns of Seymour at Alexandria in their ears the Democrats of that committee and the House will remember the sound doctrine formulated in Litz-zu's treaty of '49 for the construction of such a canal, which Clayton so soon and so senselessly abandoned. The canal will be cut at some point in Central America or the isthmus to connect the Atlantic and Pacific.

Serious Rioting.

JERSEY CITY, July 11.

There was serious rioting this afternoon at the docks of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad. One Italian was drowned in fleeing from the strikers, and a number of the strikers were wounded by pistol shots fired by the Italians.

Storm in Kansas.

SENECA, July 12.

A heavy wind and rain storm visited this neighborhood yesterday. Considerable damage was done to fruit, and one or two buildings were twisted. The effect on crops will be good.

FOREIGN.

ALEXANDRIA.

The Effect of the Bombardment—The Forts Silenced.

LONDON, July 11.

The special correspondent of the Associated Press with the British fleet telegraphs as follows:

OFF ALEXANDRIA, July 11, 6 P. M. A British naval officer has furnished me the following account of the day's operations: The bombardment commenced at 7:45 this morning. The ironclads Super and Alexandria engaged and totally destroyed Fort Paros and the light-house batteries, which are at the entrance to the new port and were intended to dominate the approach to the new harbor. The flagships Invincible and the Monarch and Penelope took up commanding positions inside the reefs and, assisted from the outside by the Temeraire, attacked with destructive effect the strong position of Fort Mex with the light-house and shore batteries. The Invincible was stationed so as to command the light-house and the batteries of Fort Pharos and Fort Mex at the same time, and was in position to co-operate with both the divisions outside and inside the reefs. The gunboats Bittern, Condor, Bescon, Decoy and Bygeret attacked the Marabout battery at the entrance to the harbor, and taking close and destructive range, soon silenced them, after which they ran in and shelled Fort Mex, on the northern side of the entrance. The Invincible, under cover of her own guns and those of the Bittern, then landed a party of blue jackets and marines, who entered Fort Mex and blew up the heavy guns. The bombardment practically ceased at noon, though some heavy guns at this hour are still shelling. Fort Napoleon, a large work situated at the southern angle of the inner harbor and dominating the town fort, does not reply. On the whole, the Egyptians fought their batteries with more determination than had been expected. Several of their earthworks, behind which guns had been mounted, were found to be mere sand. One shot went clear through the Invincible.

A correspondent on board the United States steamer Quinnebaugh says the Egyptians fought splendidly and the ships behaved magnificently. The Quinnebaugh anchored only five cables on the port beam of the Temeraire, and had a fine view of the contest. Shells from the forts fell quite close.

A correspondent on the Invincible telegraphs that the fort and batteries on the sea-wall are a heap of ruins. The Egyptians stuck to their guns until the forts were crumbling down. The aim of the Egyptian gunners was chiefly against the Penelope and Invincible, and they fired principally round shot. Their elevation was bad. The Invincible was seldom hit. The armor of the Superb was penetrated. The Egyptian officers set a good example to the men, often jumping upon the parapets to see the effect of their fire. A party of mariners landed from the Invincible to blow up the fort. The Egyptians had no shells, which fact accounts for the small number of casualties on the British vessels.

At 5:15 this evening the Helicon approached the Invincible with the officials from Dervish Pasha, who had been trying to find the flag ship all night, with a letter from the Ministry to Seymour to offer to dismount the guns. Admiral Seymour replied that the time for negotiation had passed. The Ras El Tin palace took fire during the bombardment, and was still burning at the time this dispatch was sent. Men were called for on board the Invincible at 1 P. M. to go ashore and spike the guns of the fort. In the House of Lords, at 6 o'clock this evening Lord Northbrook read a telegram, which had just been received, stating that all forts inside the harbor had been silenced.

In the House of Commons this evening Campbell Bannerman, Financial

Secretary at the War Office, read the following telegram:

ALEXANDRIA, July 11—7:35 P. M.—Total number of killed, 5; wounded, 27—distributed as follows: Killed on Alexandria, 1; Superb, 1; Sultan, 2; Infexible, 1; wounded on Alexandria, 3; Superb, 1; Sultan, 7; Infexible, 6; Infexible, 2; Penelope, 8.

Twelve officers and men landed from the Infexible under cover of the fire of the Condor, and destroyed with dynamite the heavy guns at Fort Mex. The second battalion of the Royal Irish Regiment has been ordered to proceed to Egypt within 24 hours.

ALEXANDRIA, July 11. Shortly after noon all exposed guns in the forts were dismounted, and only those in a sheltered position were able to return the British fire. Fort Maras El Kanat, which was blown up, was only completed a week ago Sunday last. The Moncrieffe battery and Pharo's fort have been silenced by the guns of the Temeraire and Infexible. The Egyptian loss is unknown, but is likely to be severe. A part of the palace is in ruins. The light-house is slightly damaged.

The slight effects of the 81-ton and other guns on the earthworks caused disappointment.

The Bombardment of Alexandria Resumed.

LONDON, July 12.

A dispatch from the Eastern Cable Company's ship, off Alexandria, sent at 11:40 A. M., says: The Infexible and Temeraire opened fire this morning on Moncrieffe Fort, which during the night had been repaired. Three shots greatly damaged the batteries. A signal has just been given to cease firing.

The Achilles has just been sighted steaming toward the fleet.

THE INVINCIBLE'S WOUNDED.

LONDON, July 12.

Admiral Seymour telegraphs that the party which landed from the Invincible to destroy Fort Mex, burst three and spiked six guns in the fort. The wounded include Lieut. Jackson, severely injured; Lieut. Davis and Midshipman Lumsden slightly injured.

A FLAG OF TRUCE.

OFF ALEXANDRIA, 1:30 P. M., July 12. A steamer is approaching the fleet with a flag of truce.

PRESS COMMENTS.

LONDON, July 12.

The Times this morning says: It is contemplated to call out 7,000 of the army reserve to take the places of unlearned men belonging to regiments prepared to proceed to Egypt. The same paper in a leading article says: Musurus Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador, had an interview yesterday with Earl Granville and demanded that the bombardment of Alexandria be countermanded. Earl Granville replied that circumstances compelled the British Government to take decisive action, and that its decision could not be revoked. We don't hesitate to say that the effect of England's determination has been to produce a most favorable impression, both on public opinion and the judgment of European States. Representatives of the Powers have already expressed satisfaction at the Government's action. There is therefore no ground whatever for the assertion that the action of England is judged by Europe as high-handed or unnecessary. If the Porte refuses to intervene in England we shall gladly welcome the assistance of France.

GAMBETTA ON THE SITUATION.

PARIS, July 12.

Gambetta made a speech yesterday in one of the Bureaux of Chambers, in the course of which he said: "The most serious feature was, that England and France, after having acted together in Alexandria in presenting the ultimatum, had parted company, and that if the separation proved definitively never would France be in a more serious position."

A Times correspondent writing about yesterday's bombardment says: The gunboats played an active part creeping close to the forts and silencing several guns. The gunboat Condor ran within twelve hundred yards of Fort Morabach, a single shot from which would have sunk her, and before the signal was given to cease firing she had silenced three great guns in the fort. The Superb has two holes in her side.

A Standard correspondent sends the following: One of the officials from Dervish Pasha has brought a letter from the Ministry to Seymour, offering to dismount the guns.

THE EGYPTIAN LOSS THOUGHT TO BE HEAVY.

LONDON, July 12.

A correspondent on board the Helicon sends the following: The loss of the Egyptians must be dreadful. A number of shells repeatedly struck the works just about the guns and threw up vast volumes of dust.

THE CANAL REMAINS CLOSED.

LONDON, July 12.

A dispatch from Suez says no merchant vessels have entered the canal for the last 48 hours. All ships, including Indian mail steamers remain in the roadstead. The whole European population is afloat. WHAT CAUSED THE WAR.

A Heavy Debt and a Khedive Who Cannot Control His People.

The fact that Egypt is in a state of revolution, and being filled and environed with European interests, a brief sketch of what caused the existing trouble will be interesting. During the last fifteen years Egypt has acquired the enormous national debt of $20,393,000 sterling, or $401,965,000. Her bonds are held by foreigners, mainly by British and French subjects, and the permanency of the present Government is deemed the best guarantee of the safety of the securities of her European creditors. And then, there is the Suez Canal, the importance of which, to the trade of the world cannot be estimated. The revolution is a menace to the existence of this great work. Every month sees the traffic on the Suez Canal increase; the tonnage passing last year exceeded that of 1879 by nearly two millions and a half; the annual revenue during the last four years has risen from under a million to nearly two millions sterling; nearly 3,000 vessels use the water every 12 months.

EGYPT BELONGS TO THE EGYPTIANS. But the canal and its banks belong to the world, and to England above all, for eighty per cent. of the tonnage is English. This fact enters as one of the causes of the largest magnitude which prompt the interference of the European Powers in the present difficulty. Political disaffection has widely existed in Egypt for several years past. The Egyptians want an autonomy, but British influence mainly has kept it a tributary province of Turkey. The work of governing was performed by the Khedive, who is considered an energetic and able sovereign—as he is virtually an independent sovereign, although supposed to hold his power from the Sultan on the easy tenure of tribute and military aid in case of war. The mere formal business has been transacted by a Privy Council and eight Ministers—the agents, not the rulers of the Khedive. This Council was presided over by Prince Herieter, Mohamed Tewfik Pasha. The English and French have been deceived by correspondents writing in the interests of bondholders, and by egregiously misinformed journals.

On the 9th of February of this year, the British and French Controllers-General at Cairo presented to the President of the Council of Ministers a letter protesting against the terms in which the European control had been mentioned in the ministerial programme. The note pointed out that it would appear from the language of the programme that the European control existed, like the cause of the public debt, merely to assure the revenues assigned for the service of the consolidated debt, whereas the Khedive's decree of November 18, 1879, conferred upon the Controllers the fullest right to investigate every part of the Egyptian financial system, together with the position and rank of Ministers, as well as a voice in all questions concerning the financial situation of Egypt, whether referring to the revenues set apart for the service of the United debt and the railway loan, or to the revenue assigned to any other public service. This power of supervision over a system of finances in which they are so deeply interested, a power that is now threatened with termination, the English and French creditors are naturally anxious to preserve. There has, however, been a deep shade of suspicion over the loyalty of the Khedive to his nominal master, the Sultan, for a long time past, and it is thought that when the Ministry exhibited a disposition to slight the former, the Porte secretly encouraged it, until under the influence of Arabi Pasha, who carries the army with him, the mutiny assumed proportions which alarmed the Porte for the security of his own pretensions. England and France proposed a conference of Powers, including the Turkish Government, to meet at Constantinople, for the purpose of settling the difficulty, but the Porte, fearing that conditions would be imposed upon him which he would not be willing to comply with, declined to be represented. At first Germany, Austria and Italy refused to enter the Conference without the concurrence of the Sultan, but as the situation increased in gravity, the former two assented. The Conference met at Stamboul, and prepared an ultimatum which was presented Monday. Meantime the Ministers had doped the Khedive, intrigued with Arabi Pasha, baffled the English and French and counted on the inability of the European Governments to unite in coercing Egypt. The Sultan saw his tributary slipping away from his grasp, and dispatched the ablest and most trusted man in his councils to invite Arabi to Constantinople and restore order in Egypt. Dervish Pasha

WAS WELL ENOUGH RECEIVED, but Arabi declined the Sultan's invitation. The first violation of the organic law by the Ministry was in summoning the Chamber of Notables over the head of the Khedive. Their nominal object was to settle a difference that had arisen between them and Mohamed Tewfik Pasha, the President of the Privy Council, whose deposition was regarded as virtually achieved in favor of a government under Arabi Pasha, unless immediate intervention took place. The Ministers represented that the Khedive could suffer no harm, but he declared in the course of a private audience, that he would not give way at any cost. He relied upon the material support of England and France. Relations were immediately suspended between the Khedive and the Ministry. The latter repudiated His Highness' authority, and made no secret of their intentions. The Radical journals of London maintained that the only ground on which the British Government could justify itself in a military interference was the protection of the Suez canal. The Government of Egypt, they declared, was not under any obligation to secure the bondholders' interest. "British investors took their own risks when they purchased the securities of an Oriental country, and they have no right to expect that their rights will be made a cause of war."

A WHOLESALE MASSACRE.

On the afternoon of Sunday, June 11th, the hostile feeling that had been growing stronger among the Egyptians toward foreigners, culminated in a wholesale massacre of the latter at Alexandria. Early in the afternoon a quarrel arose between an Arab and a European, in which the latter used a knife and killed his antagonist. There upon the Arab population became excited and commenced an indiscriminate attack upon the Europeans. The Arabs were armed with guns, knives and bludgeons. They broke into the houses and shops of the Europeans when there was any prospect of getting booty. Whatever they found that was worth taking they stole; what was not valuable enough to steal they wantonly destroyed. Mr. Cookson, the British Consul, was severely wounded, one account says, by a shot, another by a blow from a bludgeon, and the Greek and Italian Consuls were also wounded. The number of Europeans killed is estimated at 250. A number of bodies were thrown into the sea. They were bayoneted, or beaten to death with bludgeons. Witnesses state that the rabble was preceded by a detachment of gendarmes, who drew up in the middle of the square, and looked on while the massacre commenced, and afterward took part in it.

—Cholera is epidemic at Yokohama and Mingapo, China.

—One shot went clean through the Invincible yesterday at the Alexandria bombardment.

—At Nashville, Tennessee, the convention of State Credit Democrats nominated J. H. Frissell for Governor.

—The banquet which Mrs. Seville endeavored to convey to Guitau the day preceding his execution, has been analyzed and found to contain enough arsenic to kill a dozen men.

A New Route.

Owing to the distance by the present county road to the Inmate Asylum, parties are endeavoring to have the old road which was used prior to the building of the prison wall reopened and maintained. Until the asylum was built few people cared for the length of the road, but now a saving in the distance is found to be desirable. The new route follows the present road as far as the meat-shipping building, when it branches to the right, following the river curves until it intersects the main road between the prison wall and the asylum. A saving of nearly two-thirds of a mile is thus effected.

Second-Class Huttons.

Within six miles of Reno there are 2,600 goats. A band of 800 are feeding in the mountains near Mayberry's, two bands, one of 1,000 and the other of 800, are grazing between here and Verdi. Deputy Assessor Stoddard has assessed them at $1.25 per head. They are nearly all Angoras.

Scene at the Sacramento Depot.

Among the passengers standing about this morning, says the Bee, waiting for the departure of the San Francisco train via Stockton was a dapper young man, who wears light-colored spring-bottom pantaloons, highly colored fancy shirts, and a big seal ring; whose nominal profession is a driver, engaged in handling the lines from the top of a big hotel bus at Marysville. When the Marysville train rolled slowly in under the sheds, there alighted a little blonde woman, carrying a valise and seeming to be greatly excited. The gay young Lothario saw her and no sooner did he see than he ran hurriedly across two or three car platforms to hide in the next train to depart for the Bay. But the woman's eyes were as sharp, and dropping the valise, she made a dash resulting in the capture and pulling down from the platform of the ungallant fugitive. He, too, seemed excited, and seizing her about the waist searched her person rapidly, while she cried out, "I haven't got a pistol!" The crowd in the depot began to get nervous and to expect a tragedy, but when her young man became satisfied that there was no pistol in hiding she wound her fingers closely about his coat collar, and the twain marched up town, she triumphantly looking, and he like a condemned criminal.

An Elopement Married at Reno.

Last Monday's GAZETTE contained the marriage notice of A. Cox and Miss Nevada Eller, from Shasta, at the Palace Hotel here. A GAZETTE special from Red Bluff, Cal., says: "Andy Cox and Miss Nevada Eller, both of Fall River valley, Shasta county, eloped from Redding on Sunday morning, taking a train for San Francisco, after being married at Redding. The young lady is under age, and had been visiting her sister at Anderson. She went up to Redding, met Cox, and got married." It seems the young couple after meeting at Redding concluded to come this side of the State line and have the knot tied. They put up at the Palace, sent for Justice Young and were married, inviting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perkins to witness the ceremony. They remained here until Tuesday, and left for home.

Nevada Theatre.

Rial's Uncle Tom's Company are coming, and will appear Saturday evening at the Nevada Theatre. The company, in their new version of the famous moral drama of Uncle Tom's Cabin is the best that has ever presented this home picture of life among the lowly. The San Francisco press speaks of them in the highest terms. The scenic effects are grand. The celebrated trick donkey "Jerry" and the Siberian bloodhounds are interesting features. The Magnolia Jubilee Band make the scene at the death of little Eva very effective. Engage seats at the Postoffice. Admission, 50 and 75 cents.

Bound Over.

The trial of Tim Desmond for the shooting of Dan O'Keefe was concluded last evening before Justice Young. The testimony was extremely contradictory, the defense in many points flatly contradicting the evidence of the prosecution. The argument of counsel on both sides was quite lengthy and pointed. Desmond was bound over to appear before the next Grand Jury and released on his own recognizance.

Taken to Carson.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Fellows, Winnemucca, came in last night with J. H. Job, county clerk of Humboldt county, under indictment for embezzlement, who he took to Carson this morning, to appear before the Supreme Court on a writ of habeas corpus. Job demands an immediate trial or his release from custody. On his first trial the jury failed to agree.

The Acme Glee Club.

Last evening a number of young men of Reno met at a private residence and organized the Acme glee club, about 14 members being present. The following officers were elected: President, W. S. McLeish; Vice President, J. W. Carroll; Secretary, H. Argrance; Treasurer, H. Conrad.

Glendale.

Glendale had the first dose of Christianity accorded her last Sunday. Charles Embo, employed on one of the ranches in Glendale, preached in the old Glendale Hotel. The effect must have startled the Glendale, and favorably, too, for he will preach again next Sunday afternoon in the same place to the same band of sinners.

The Weather Here.

The suffering population of Reno are breathing maledictions against Nasby, the popular variety man. He has been devoting special attention to his thermometer and, as a result, the weather is hotter than ever. He intends to take a reef in his weather indications and furnish a comfortable day for a change.

Want Water.

The Winnemucca Water Company raised the price of water for the Court House from $4 per month to $8. The Commissioners refused to stand the raise and the Silver State says the company have shut off the water. The Board has adjourned till October.

A Telephone Exchange.

The telephone is rapidly extending the sphere of its usefulness. It is not more than a year or so ago that a Telephone Exchange was established in Virginia City, and now a private line exclusively for telephones, is working between Virginia and Carson, inaugurated by Frank Bell, the veteran telegraph man. Parties here are moving to have a Telephone Exchange established in Reno. The great extent of the town site and its growing importance is considered to warrant a central telephone office being established, which would certainly pay. From Steamboat to the English mill and from Verdi to Klepper's ranch a network of telephone wires would prove of immense service and a source of profit to the inaugurator. Several parties are talking of erecting the lines, but it is likely that Frank Bell will take a hand in the matter and thus have an extended telephone service from the Comstock here.

Board of Pardons.

The Board of Pardons met again yesterday and granted a pardon to T. P. Cockrill, the last of the Verdi car robbers, so far as his sentence for robbery goes. He has now to put in an additional year for prison breaking, as the pardon relates only to the original sentence.
